Domyn specializes in the research and development of Responsible AI for regulated industries, including financial services, government, and advanced manufacturing. It provides enterprises with proprietary, fully governable solutions built on a composable AI architecture that integrates LLMs, AI agents, and one of the world's largest supercomputers.

At the core of Domyn's technology is a unique framework that enables organizations to control the entire AI stack — from hardware to application — ensuring isolation, security, and compliance across the AI lifecycle. Powering this vision is Colosseum, a supercomputer built with NVIDIA's latest-generation Blackwell Superchips, designed to train next-generation models exceeding 1T parameters.

Domyn's foundational LLMs, Domyn Large and Domyn Small, are built for advanced reasoning and optimized to understand each business's specific language, logic, and context. Offered under an open-enterprise license, these models provide clients with full transferability and ownership. Once deployed, they enable customizable agents that securely operate on proprietary data to solve complex, domain-specific challenges — such as Crystal, Domyn's agent for Decision Intelligence. These capabilities are delivered through the Domyn Platform, which allows clients to create, configure, and orchestrate AI agents tailored to their unique challenges and specific business problems. Installed within each client's secure and private environment, the Platform ensures complete control of the AI lifecycle.

Domyn has established important and strategic partnerships, including those with Microsoft and NVIDIA, further strengthening its ability to deliver enterprise-grade AI to regulated industries. Clients include leading enterprises such as Allianz, Intesa Sanpaolo, and Fincantieri.
